

How will the federal apostille certificate or federal authentication certificate be attached to my documents?

Your successfully apostilled document will come back to you from the United States Department of State (USDOS) office with an 8 ½ x 11 apostille certification or authentication certification grommited to it.

Please be aware that if the grommet comes out of your federal apostille certificate or federal authentication certificate, the foreign government or entity that requested and required you to get this done could reject your document when you try to submit and present it to them.

So if you have to scan and email your apostille certificate to someone, please make sure to carefully flip back the page with the certificate attached to it, and don't take out the grommet when you do the scan.
