

Will the U.S Department of State accept documents in non-English languages?

No.

The U.S Department of State will only accept legal documents presented to them in the English language.

The only exception to this rule is if you also attach a translated version copy to your original document that has also been properly notarized by a U.S notary public.