

Can I walk in for apostille?

Yes and no.

Yes, you can walk into our Austin, TX HQ office and drop off your documents. But only if you follow the detailed ordering directions on this website and you bring in a completed apostille order form from 9am-5pm Monday-Friday, excluding all major state and federal holidays.

This isn't "walk-in service" per se, meaning your documents don't get apostilled at or in our office, and you can't wait around and walk out with your documents apostilled. We rush apostille your legal documents at the only place in Texas that issues apostilles, and that is at the Texas Secretary of State in Austin, TX.

No company or person with a business/mailing address in Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, El Paso, San Antonio, or any other city in Texas for that matter can apostille your documents in those other cities. Regardless, if they have an office where you can physically drop off documents or an address where you mail your documents to, or even if they travel to your home/work and pick up your documents.

These people and businesses are simply middlemen that markup the price and then turn around and hire companies like ours that do the actual work since they are not based in Austin, TX like we are. This is why their prices are so much higher than ours and why they take a a lot longer to turn around your documents and why they can't file your documents within literal hours like we can for you.
