

Do banks do apostille?

No, banks and credit unions do not and cannot issue apostille certificates.

Only state and federal state departments have the legal authority to issue apostille certifications and authentication certifications on personal, business, and corporate documents.