

How long does it take to apostille?

How long does it take to apostille depends on you and where you need it apostilled at.

All 50 states have their own secretary of state offices that can issue STATE-LEVEL apostille certificates. Each state's turnaround times are different and if you're using an expedited apostille service company like ours the time will also vary.

If you're filing a document at the FEDERAL level that can only be done in Washington D.C at the U.S Department of State office and that will take much longer than the time it takes to get a state-level apostille certificate
